Our Mission...

The Historical Society of Hammonton was established to provide for generations to come a living collection relating to the rich and unique social, political, economic and cultural heritage of the Town of Hammonton, New Jersey.

The mission of the society is to increase awareness of history relating to Hammonton, New Jersey environs and to establish public access to that history by collecting, conserving, studying, interpreting and promoting the history to the widest audience.

Our Collection... includes a wide variety of materials related to our Mission. These items include, photographs, books, historic documents, artwork and artifacts. This pamphlet showcases just a sample of the photographic treasures you will discover in the museum.

Join Us For Our Lecture Series...

The Historical Society of Hammonton brings interesting and educational lectures to the community of Hammonton and its surrounding areas. Topics have covered everything from stories of local war heroes to the history of quilting in the Pines. Pictured here is David Hann discussing the Civic War's version of the dog tag.

Did You Know....

Victor Moore, the beloved theatrical figure, was born and reared in Hammonton on 12th Street. By 1894 Moore was touring the country in various shows. Later in his career, he added motion pictures to his repertoire. Many of us are familiar with his last contribution to film as the plumber in the famed bubble bath scene with Marilyn Monroe in the "Seven Year Itch". Victor Moore died of a heart attack July 23, 1962. Moore is pictured here with his wife, Hammonton's location, midway between Atlantic City and Philadelphia is Southern New Jersey, truly deems it the hub of South Jersey. It is uniquely situated between the area's major highways: at its South lie the Atlantic City Expressway and Route 322 (Black Horse Pike); to its North is Route 30 (White Horse Pike) while Route 54 runs right through its downtown which links up directly with Route 206.
